GUEST DIRECTORY

This guest directory was made here, by hand, using materials drawn from the landscape and traditions of Upper Egypt.

Its cover is bound in soft sheep leather, while the inside is lined with handmade sugarcane-paper pastedown made on our farm.

Each volume is assembled and finished in our own bookbinding workshop, where traditional techniques and locally sourced materials are given time and care.

The result is an object that carries the marks of the hands that made it, reflecting the spirit of the place and the enduring value of craftsmanship.

HOW IT ALL BEGAN

Al Moudira began with a parcel of desert and a spring. Zeina Aboukheir, the founder, found both close to the Nile and, over the years, made of them the only palace hotel on Luxor's west bank.

The furniture, the antiques, the paintings, the painted glass — almost everything you see — she gathered slowly, on travels through Alexandria, Cairo, Beirut and Damascus.

The hotel takes its name from her workers' affectionate term for her: Al Moudira (المديرة), the lady boss. It sits at the edge of the Nubian desert, inside one of the oldest UNESCO world heritage areas in the world.

The walls, doors, tiles and beams were rescued from old Egyptian houses that would otherwise have been lost.

Eight courtyards open onto each other; bougainvillea climbs everywhere; the gardens are full of palms and small living things. The architecture is the work of Olivier Sednaoui, who married Middle Eastern tradition with sustainable building practice — handcrafted wooden doors, locally fired terracotta, painted glass from Alexandria, hand-cut floor tiles.

The hotel began with a handful of rooms; it now includes villas, apartments and suites, and continues to evolve under the same eye.

In 2025 Al Moudira received the Prix Versailles — the UNESCO-endorsed award for architectural projects that exemplify sustainability, cultural preservation and the integration of local heritage into contemporary work.

Membership of Relais & Châteaux, the international association of independent hotels and restaurants, recognises the same: a property of singular character, made by hand, run by people who care.

Zeina's intention was simple — to make a place that felt like nowhere else, that held the spirit of old Egypt without freezing it.

We hope you find that here.

By Vintage Car
A handful of restored classic cars are available for half-day or full-day excursions through the Theban countryside, with a driver. Suitable for two or three. Please ask reception for current options and routes.

Cycling

Bicycles can be borrowed from reception for the lanes around the hotel — a quiet way to see how the villages live, and a good way to reach the smaller temples without a car.

Cooking with the Farm Kitchen

Half-day cooking sessions with the Farm Kitchen team, a market visit, a walk through the farm, then cooking what has been gathered. Best booked a day or two in advance.

Workshops & Artisans

The artisan workshops behind the hotel, pottery, weaving, papermaking, tailoring, are open to guests by walk-in or appointment. See Moudira Farm & Artisans, overleaf.

Around the Property

For quieter half-days: a tour of the farm by donkey cart, board games and cards from reception, the libraries scattered through the public rooms, a swim, an hour in the spa, a long lunch.

Beit El Nil

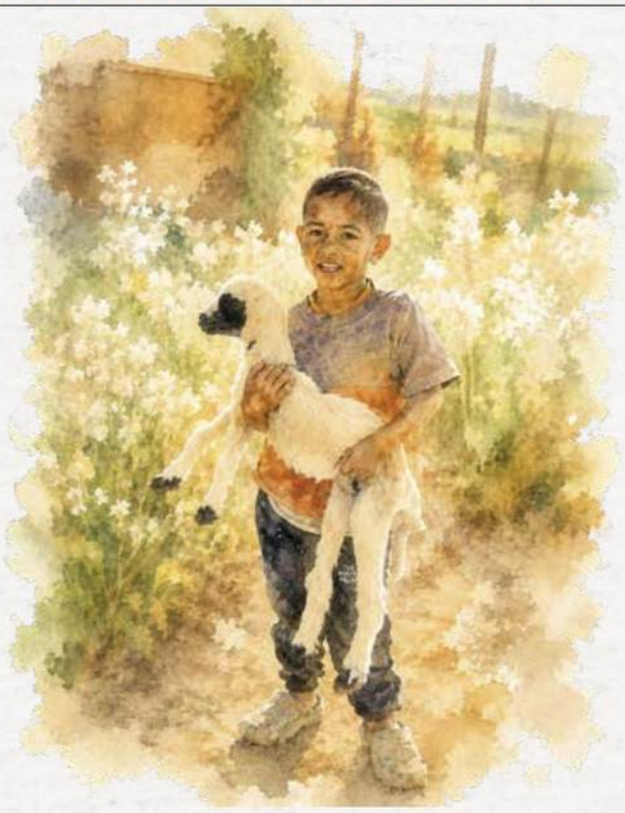

Beit El Nil is a twelve-suite house on the banks of the Nile in Luxor, sister property to Al Moudira and part of the same collection. It stands on a stretch of the river that remains much as it has always been open water, palm groves, and the Theban hills beyond, with no modern construction to interrupt the view.

The location is remarkably convenient: fifteen minutes from the Valley of the Kings, fifteen minutes from Luxor airport, and around twenty-five minutes' drive from Al Moudira.

The house can be taken as a whole for private stays and events, or suite by suite for individual guests. It is also an ideal setting for a private lunch or dinner on the river; whether this can be arranged depends on occupancy when the house is under full buyout it is reserved exclusively for its guests, while at other times we are glad to organise meals and events there. Please speak to Reception, who will be happy to check availability and make the arrangements.

MOUDIRA FARM & ARTISANS

The Farm

Just past the gardens, the farm spreads out across twelve hectares of vegetables, fruit and herbs, with cows, donkeys, ducks, chickens and a resident camel adding to the rhythm of daily life. Most of what arrives in our kitchens comes from here. Anything left over is composted or fed to the animals; it is a working farm, not a display one.

The Artisans

On the grounds and just beyond, several traditional crafts are still practiced.

Visitors are welcome; in most cases you can also try your hand.

Tailoring with Ramez

Our on-site tailor, trained by the Florentine tailor Luca Avitabile. Suits, shirts and lighter clothing made to measure during your stay; commissions can also be shipped after departure.

The Pottery

Two minutes' walk from the property. Watch the wheel or take a turn at it yourself — a small piece can be made in an afternoon and fired in time to take home.

The Weaving Mill

The cottons that turn up across the hotel are woven here. The mill is open to visitors; the Fabric Shop, behind the Eastern Bar, sells finished pieces.

Paper Making Studio

Beside the pottery, our paper studio makes hand-pulled sheets from sugar-cane fibre. Easier to do than it looks; visitors are encouraged to make their own sheet to take away.

Bookbinding and Paper Craft

Our bookbinder creates beautiful leather-bound notebooks with hand-finished, gold-edged pages, alongside a range of unique and practical objects made from handmade paper and carton, including elegant foldable paper bins, boxes, and bespoke stationery items.

Alabaster Carving

Working with one of Upper Egypt's most traditional materials, our alabaster artisan carves exquisite vases, candle holders, carafes, and decorative objects, revealing the natural beauty and translucency of the stone.

Brass Smithing

The brass workshop produces finely crafted oriental lamps, lanterns, wind lights, and decorative pieces. Intricate hand-cut patterns create the distinctive play of light and shadow characteristic of traditional Middle Eastern metalwork.

Palm-Leaf Weaving

Using the strong central ribs of date-palm leaves, our palm weaver creates durable furniture and decorative objects, continuing a centuries-old technique that makes use of one of the region's most abundant natural materials.

Embroidery

Our embroiderers preserve traditional needlework techniques, producing finely detailed decorative textiles, cushions, linens, and bespoke pieces that reflect the rich heritage of Egyptian craftsmanship.

Rattan Weaving

Skilled rattan weavers create elegant furniture, baskets, and decorative accessories, combining natural materials with time-honoured techniques to produce both functional and beautiful objects.

The Brazier

Our brazier specializes in the traditional working of copper and metal, crafting trays, bowls, coffee pots, serving pieces, and ornamental household objects using age-old hammering and shaping techniques.

Glassmaking and Bottle Recycling

Giving new life to used glass bottles from the hotel, our glassmaker transforms recycled material into drinking glasses, vases, candle holders, and decorative objects, combining sustainability with artisanal creativity. Our community of artisans represents a living heritage of Upper Egypt, preserving traditional skills while creating contemporary objects that continue to enrich daily life at Al Moudira

Khayamiya

In the paper making studio our artisans preserve the centuries-old Egyptian art of appliqué, hand-stitching colourful textiles into intricate geometric and arabesque designs used for cushions, wall hangings, and decorative furnishings.

Ironsmith

At the Farm, behind the Farmers' Residence. Traditional blacksmithing techniques are used to handcraft and restore wrought-iron furniture, gates, lanterns, and architectural details found throughout Al Moudira.

Carpet Weaving

At the Farm, next to the Pottery. Woven by hand on traditional looms, our carpets combine natural fibres with timeless patterns, keeping one of Upper Egypt's oldest weaving traditions alive.

Painting & Glass Painting

On the Terrace behind the Event Hall. Hand-painted furniture, decorative objects, and reverse-painted glass are created using traditional techniques, bringing vibrant colour and craftsmanship to the hotel's interiors.

Furniture Restoration

At the Farm, beside the Kettle. Skilled craftsmen carefully restore antique furniture, preserving its original character while ensuring it can be enjoyed for generations to come.

Upholstery & Luggage Making

At the Farm, next to the Furniture Restoration workshop. Traditional upholstery and leatherworking techniques are used to restore furniture and create handcrafted luggage and travel accessories.

Daily Farm & Grounds Walk

Our grounds, and especially the farm, are extensive and can be overwhelming to explore on your own. Each day at 9:30 am, one of our team members leads a complimentary introductory walk, showing how Al Moudira and the farm coexist and how traditional crafts, agriculture, and daily hotel life come together. Guests wishing to join are invited to meet at reception.

Horseback Riding & Camel Riding

Moudira's Stable is part of the farm, where horses are raised and cared for before carrying guests into the landscape beyond. The routes leave the estate through cultivated fields, past neighbouring villages, along the Nile and into the desert, following paths that have shaped life on Luxor's West Bank for generations. Horses offer a more spirited ride, while camels move at a slower, unhurried pace, each revealing the landscape in its own way. Helmets and all necessary tack are provided; rides are available at an additional charge.

SUSTAINABILITY

Preamble

On the following pages you will find the standards and certifications we are asked to display. We do so reluctantly.

Not because we don't believe in them, but because we believe in them too completely to treat them as something to advertise.

Too many hotels invoke sustainability as a marketing posture: a logo in the footer, a card on the bathroom sink. For them it is a campaign. For us it has never been anything other than the way the place was built and the way it is run.

In Practice

Sustainability at Al Moudira is not a programme; it is how the hotel was built and how it is run. The water that fills the pool and the gardens comes from a natural spring on the property. Most of what is served in the restaurants is grown in the farm behind the hotel. Food waste returns to the farm as compost or animal feed. Cleaning products are eco-formulated; laundry detergents likewise.

Water & Plastic

Drinking water is filtered on site through a Brita system — there are no plastic bottles anywhere on the property. Drinking straws are made from Egyptian reed.

Energy

Solar panels supply hot water across the hotel year-round; Luxor's sun does the work that would otherwise take diesel or grid power. Cooling runs on dual-inverter air-conditioning units, which use a fraction of the electricity of conventional systems while delivering steady comfort.

Architecture

Much of the hotel is made from reclaimed and rescued material — doors, beams, tiles, furniture — taken from old Egyptian houses that would otherwise have been demolished. Traditional construction methods, used by Olivier Sednaoui and the local craftsmen who built the place, do most of the climate work that would otherwise need machinery: thick walls, shaded courtyards, narrow openings.

People

The neighbouring village is part of the hotel's story. Many members of the team have been here for years, in hospitality, in the gardens, on the farm, in the workshops. Steady employment, training and the patient development of skills are part of the same effort that keeps the buildings standing — and they matter just as much.

Prix Versailles

In 2025, Al Moudira's commitment to sustainability was recognised internationally when it received the Prix Versailles World's Most Beautiful Hotel award, a UNESCO-endorsed distinction honouring architecture and design that combine environmental responsibility with cultural identity and timeless beauty.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

Currencies & Payment

Room accounts are kept in USD and can be settled in USD, Pound Sterling or EURO. We accept all major cards. Cash is also accepted. There is no obligation to convert currencies in advance — reception will exchange small amounts on request.

Gratuities

A service charge is included in your hotel bill. In Egypt, this is a statutory charge that forms part of employees' remuneration and supports the hotel's operations- it is not a personal gratuity.

If you would like to recognise exceptional service, gratuities are entirely at your discretion and always appreciated, though never expected.

Should you wish to leave something for the hotel team, a sealed envelope can be handed to Reception on departure. You're also welcome to thank individual team members directly- your housekeeper, restaurant team, spa therapist, driver or guide.

Dress

Daytime is informal — swimwear at the pool, light clothes everywhere else. Evenings are smart-casual; many guests like to dress for dinner without it being formal. A wrap or light jacket is useful in winter. For visits to temples, modest dress is appreciated (covered shoulders and knees), and good shoes for uneven ground.

Children

Children of all ages are welcome. Cots, highchairs, and a children's menu are available; babysitting can be arranged with a day's notice. The shallow pool, the farm animals, the donkey cart and the workshops are all enjoyed by younger guests.

Languages

The team speaks Arabic, English, French, German and Italian, with other languages variously between them. Guides for other languages can be arranged.

Transport & Arrival

Luxor International Airport is on the east bank, around 45 minutes' drive from the hotel. The crossing of the Nile is by road bridge to the south of town.

Airport transfers are arranged through reception; please give us your flight details a day in advance for the return. There is parking on site for guests with their own car.

Connectivity

Wi-Fi reaches the whole property. For printing, scanning or business needs, please ask reception — there is a quiet corner with what you need.

International calls can be placed through the operator.

A Note on Luxor

Luxor — ancient Thebes — divides between two banks of the Nile. The east bank is the modern town, the airport, the souk, and the great temple complexes of Karnak and Luxor.

The west bank, where Al Moudira sits, is the necropolis: the Valleys of the Kings and Queens, the mortuary temples, the tombs of the nobles, and the small villages and farms that have grown up between them.

The river divides not just two banks but two halves of a day — most guests cross the Nile in the morning for the temples, then return for lunch and the heat.

Tap water is not for drinking; we provide filtered water everywhere.

The voltage is 220V; sockets are European two-pin.

The time zone is GMT+2.

Local Etiquette

A few small things make travel easier in Egypt. At religious sites, dress modestly; remove shoes where indicated. Photography is allowed at most temples but not inside the tombs without an extra permit. Bargaining is expected in markets but not in shops; smile, take your time. During Ramadan, eating and drinking in public during daylight is best avoided; the hotel operates normally throughout.

Lost & Found

If something has gone missing, the chances are it has already been found. Please contact reception (dial 0) or message us on WhatsApp (+20 122 3251 307), a photo of the item helps us identify it quickly.
